

What is it that causes these different coastal formations?

What is a headland?

What types of rock are most liable to being eroded?

What is it that causes these different coastal formations?

